THE HALIGOLUK

THE HAVERFORD SCHOOL
Haverford, Pennsylvania

Presented by the HALIGOLUK staff of the CLASS of 1956

DEDICATION

Charles P. Dethier has been with the Haverford School since 1938, excepting the four years which he spent in the Army during World War II. He taught many members of the Class of 1956 in the Junior School and since 1951 has devoted his talents to Fifth Form English, where we felt his influence last year. We have also known Mr. Dethier through his many sports activities; he has been coach of the squash team since he came to Haverford, and, in the past, he has coached many of the younger teams. In addition to his other interests, Mr. Dethier is faculty advisor to The Index, a position he executes with tact and understanding.

It is with great respect and a true feeling of friendship that the Class of 1956 dedicates its Haligoluk to Charles P. Dethier.

APPRECIATION

Joseph D. McQuillen came to Haverford as gym coach in the spring of 1933. During the following winter he assumed the coaching of the swimming team — a post which he has filled so well that he is regarded by many to be one of the best swimming coaches in the country. The swimming team, however, is not the only school team which receives benefits from “Joe’s” abilities. He serves as trainer for the football team, is a starter for the track team, and does any necessary taping.

In this small way, the Class of '56 expresses the entire school's appreciation to “Joe” McQuillen — a fine friend and a thoughtful guide.

ANOTHER MILESTONE

Six years ago, the Haligoluk noted a milestone in the history of The Haverford School: the completion of the first part of the building plan by which the Board of Directors hopes to have the entire school remodeled in time for the 75th anniversary festivities in 1959. This year, the Haligoluk staff records with pride the completion of the second phase of the plan, the reconstruction of the "Oaks" so-called because of the magnificent oak trees surrounding the old building. The "Oaks" suffered two fires, one in 1906, and the other in the 1940's. Bought with the ground in the early days of the school, the "Oaks" was re-named Crosman Hall, in honor of Charles Crosman, Headmaster of The Haverford School from 1884 to 1912, in a dedication ceremony on October 28, 1955.

Early in April, 1955, the workers of the F. B. Davis Sons Construction Company began the destruction of the old "Oaks" and the construction of Crosman Hall. During the summer the work proceeded rapidly until Hurricane Diane struck. Due to the time lost in repairing the damage done by the storm, the workmen did not complete the job until shortly after the beginning of the new school year. Styled in the colonial Williamsburg manner of the Ryan Memorial Gymnasium, the finished product is indeed a strikingly beautiful edifice. The outside walls of the new building are of red brick and the gabled roof is covered with black asphalt shingles. A good percentage of the outside surface of the building is taken up by windows.

In contrast with the exterior of Crosman Hall, the inside is designed in very modern style. The corridors with their Kentile floorings and mildly arched ceilings are both practical and aesthetic. The class rooms are spacious and well-lighted, unlike those of the old "Oaks." In every class room, the majority of one wall is taken up by windows. In addition, these rooms contain many square feet of bulletin board and blackboard space. The rooms, painted in pastel colors, impress the visitor as light and airy.

The building contains many other features. The new wood-working shop is a great improvement over the old one in the basement of Wilson Hall. The new room is much larger and lighted by windows on two sides. The new addition to the school also contains a ladies room, a faculty room, a spacious locker room, a large, modern rest room, the assembly room, and the cafeteria.

The assembly room is much larger than the old one; it has a 300-person capacity and is a long, wide, rather low room with windows along one side, and it is separated from the cafeteria by a folding door.

The cafeteria has been lengthened, repainted, and provided with framed prints on the walls. The addition of background music is under consideration.

Altogether, the new building has had a splendid effect on the appearance of the school plant, and it is an outstanding example of the ever-increasing growth and activity of the school.

Leslie R. Severinghaus: English, 1929; Headmaster, 1942.

The Headmaster's Message

This message to the Class of 1956 is being written during the Christmas vacation. Like everyone else, I am peculiarly aware of the blessings of friendship that are so richly apparent at this glad season. I am reminded that we all have a tendency, because of the pressures of life, to neglect our friends until some special occasion brings us again into contact with them.

This, it seems to me, is unfortunate. We should make particular effort at all times to cultivate our friendships. A letter today, a phone call tomorrow, a surprise visit when we pass through some city — there are hundreds of little opportunities to show our regard and affection for friends. We make so little use of these opportunities.

As you go off to college, you separate from most of your schoolmates. They will go their ways and you will go yours. Some of them have meant a great deal to you during the past several years. You could mean much to one another in the years that lie ahead. Unless, however, you resolve now to keep in touch with them, the years will place a natural barrier between you, and a great and good value will have been discarded.

You will increasingly appreciate that happiness in life comes almost entirely from association with others. Although you will always be meeting new people, some of whom will become and remain good friends, most of them will be acquaintances. Real friends are few. I would urge you to cherish and nurture those particular school friendships that have meaning to you. Don't let them slip into discard. The occasional alumni reunion will not recapture that early relationship. Once it gets away from you, it seldom returns. Although, in the present fullness and excitement of your life, this doesn't seem to make much sense, it will fifteen years from now. As Polonius remarks to Laertes, "Those friends thou hast and their adoption tried, grapple them unto thy soul with hoops of steel."

FOURTH FORM

The class of 1958 has always been outstanding for its school spirit, its loyalty, and its participation in school activities.

Last September, the members of our class, for the most part, began to study with teachers who were new to them. For English, we all had Mr. Evans, under whose tutelage we read A Tale of Two Cities and Julius Caesar, and wrote a lengthy short story. Mr. Smith and Mr. Byerly taught us second year algebra, and, for the first time, each of us received his own math answer book. This year our elective courses were modern European history, biology, Latin, German, French, and Spanish.

On the athletic fields, we had representatives on most varsity teams, notably soccer and baseball. All other sports were also very popular with the Fourth Form boys.

The class of 1958 was well represented in extracurricular activities, as well. The organizations which were most popular were the Glee Club, the Polemics Society, and the Hoyle Club. However, the school dances and the mad dash to the lunchroom were features enjoyed by most Fourth Formers.

Our class officers were Phil Hepburn, president, Bob Sessions, vice-president, Albert Oehrle, secretary, and Bill Hyland, treasurer, and the class representative on the Student Council was David Rogers.

The Fourth Form has certainly had a successful year, and with two more years remaining at Haverford, we look forward to achieving bigger goals in both academic and athletic pursuits.

THIRD FORM

Upon entering the Senior School, we Third Formers were made acutely aware of the serious years that lie ahead. Although on occasion we have been caught playing around, a carry-over from previous years, we seem to have found less time for the pranks that formerly delighted us so much. We have certainly taken a big step towards maturity, but a long path still lies ahead before we become mature men. We now realize, however, that this preparation in the field of education will serve us faithfully in the years to come.

Many students appreciate the long-awaited transition to the Upper School because they enjoy the greater liberties that are offered them; others who have anticipated more leisure time are displeased with the harder work and subsequently lower grades. Of course, sports have continued to be our favorite pastime, and many of our number have already excelled. We feel certain that when the time comes for the class of 1959 to head varsity competition, we will give an outstanding account of ourselves the Inter-Academic League.

This year as before, Mr. Byerly, the faculty advisor for the Third Form, handled the class elections, and the results pleased everyone. Peter Crouse was elected president, Jim Laier vice-president, Barry Matlavage secretary, and Tom Worth treasurer. Holding positions on the Student Council this year were Walter Acuff and Chris Harvey.

The Third Formers were pleased to find many smoothly functioning organizations vying for members. The Third Form French Club and the Outing Club became the two most popular clubs among Third Formers, but many boys joined other groups.

THE JUNIOR SCHOOL

THROUGH THE EYES OF A SIXTH GRADER

Our last year in the Junior School was a very good one. Our athletic teams had very successful seasons. The ninety-pound football team was undefeated and untied!

There have been many interesting assembly programs. Several times Mr. Fowler from the Museum of Natural History spoke, and John duPont and Sheldon Severinghaus, from the Upper School, gave lectures and brought movies about birds, and slides about beagles. We had many amusing plays. We had a wonderful time watching cartoons and movie shorts on the morning of the Christmas Concert, which was a big success. Later, Mr. Law surprised us with tape recordings of the concert.

It was a lot of fun preparing for the Gym Exhibition. The Sixth Graders used the parallel bars and the single high bar most of the time! Baseball season started on the first day after Spring Vacation. Most of the Sixth Graders were on the eleven or twelve-year-old teams, and both had successful seasons. We had a wonderful time working on the operetta, which this year was "The Mikado" by Gilbert and Sullivan. We will soon be preparing for the graduation exercises. Most of us will have to buy white pants, but it is worth it, for we all are looking forward to entering the First Forum in its new building, Crosman Hall. In all, it has been a wonderful year in the Junior School.

The Index, the school's monthly newspaper, has completed another harassing year of publication under the brilliant but erratic co-editorship of Rex Clements, Kendall Elsom, and William Hughes, the supervision of the faculty advisor, Mr. Dethier, and the frequent advice of the self-appointed Board of Censors. This year, the news sheet employed the Olney Printing Company, whose Messrs. Cohen — senior and junior — often barely managed to keep their patience with the editors.

The Index owes its popularity among the student body to its two columns — "Crow's Nest" and "Sports Chatter." This year, the old Crow was brought to life by David Bevan, Peter Scott, Charles Hawks, John Master, and Christopher Smith. Across the crease from the Crow, "Sports Chatter" was scintillatingly composed by Harry Montague and Thomas Stewart.

Gregory Tobin, somewhat of a sport himself, was sports editor. George Blythe handled the duties of circulation manager; Roger Neuman served efficiently as photographer, while Peter Kane and Oscar Goodman submitted their jocose drawings for publication. Due credit must be given to Mr. Dethier, without whose assistance the Index could not have succeeded.

HOYLE CLUB

The Hoyle Club is composed of students who desire to promote a serious and progressive interest in games of superior skill, such as bridge, chess, and checkers.

Fortified by this year's overpowering membership the club was able to form a chess team and a bridge team.

David McIlvaine, Donald Glynn, Gordon Large, and Martin Hatch comprised an invincible chess team which had matches with Radnor, Baldwin, Penn Charter, and Friends Central. The bridge team was composed of William Ewing and Christopher Smith, with Stephen Vehslage as an alternate.

Several new games were introduced during the administration of Donald Glynn, who was president, David McIlvaine, who was vice-president, and Gordon Large, who was secretary-treasurer. Mr. Sensenig, club advisor and an expert at all games of superior skill, led the club through the hazards of a rough season.

SERVICE CLUB

1955-56 was one of the most successful years in Service Club history. With Mr. Haviland as faculty advisor, William Hughes as president; Harry Montague, vice-president; Thomas Stewart, secretary; and Thomas Russell and Peter Ward, co-treasurers, the Haverford School's charitable organization accomplished a great deal.

The club sponsored two drives during the course of the year — one for the March of Dimes and the other for the United Fund. For its outstanding work in the latter campaign, the school received an award of merit.

The Service Club's members are also responsible for the management of the jigger shop, which this year sold scarves and book covers in addition to a large assortment of candy. The club made a profit of over $200 dollars from this enterprise and distributed half the money to twenty-one charities, including foreign and local groups. The rest of the money maintains a balance for next year.

In November, two of the members witnessed the functioning of an organization which the club supports. Albert Oehrle and Russell Stevens were guests of the United Fund on an inspection tour of some of the Fund's welfare programs in Philadelphia.

The Service Club should be commended for its diligence and unselfish work, and, at the same time, every member should feel proud of the aid he has helped give to those less fortunate than ourselves.

Duncan, Chase, Schmidt-Hidding, Gordon, Mr. Allen, Ewing, Oser, Cushmore, Brodhead, Stahl.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB

The Current Events Club, ably directed by Mr. Allen, followed last year's plan of action. The club was made up of members of the Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Forms. Reports on current events, delivered at each of the meetings, were followed by discussion periods.

The officers of the club are elected to a one semester term. For the first half of the year, Charles Brodhead was president, Thomas Chase was vice-president, and John Mudd was program chairman. The post of secretary was occupied by Lawrence Buell in the first term, and by William Ewing in the second term. At mid-year, Wolfgang Schmidt-Hidding was elected president, Thomas Chase was again voted in as vice-president, and Ingolf Stahl took over as program chairman.

Special reports give the members a chance to keep abreast of the events in the world, and along with the knowledge of current happenings, all the members acquire experience in speaking.

This year the club was in the enviable position of having all four of the school's foreign students as members. Global affairs assumed a greater degree of realism when narrated and commented upon by these European boys.

The high point in the club's year came in December, when a delegation went to the United Nations in New York. The group, consisting of Stahl, Chase, and Ewing, witnessed meetings of several committees of the U.N., and, after their return, they reported their observations to the club.

POLEMICS SOCIETY

The purpose of the Polemics Society is to help train students of the Haverford School in the art of public speaking. Through numerous debates and extemporaneous speeches, the members of the club can improve their poise and delivery, so that they will be able to talk freely and easily in later life. Under the able guidance of Mr. Evans, the 20-odd boys that comprised the Polemics Society have worked throughout the year to master this ability to speak in public.

At the start of the initial semester, the club's officers were John Mudd, president; James Weiss, vice-president; Robert Gordon, secretary; and David Litton, treasurer. At the end of the first semester, however, Richard Ledwith, Litton, Gordon, and Albert Oehrle were elected as the new staff. The Polemics Society has always held its elections at midyears so that the president will have had some valuable experience for running the organization the next year.

As has been the custom in previous years, the Polemics Society held an extemporaneous speaking contests in the second semester for its members, and the finalists appeared in an assembly program. Although this annual affair was the only special program that the club undertook, the effectiveness of the Polemics Society must not be underestimated, for all its members, by participating in the debates held at the club's meetings, gained experience and confidence in public speaking that will be invaluable to them in their later years.

Under the capable direction of Mr. Law, this year's Glee Club overcame the handicap of inexperience to turn into a very good choral group. In preparation for the most ambitious schedule he has ever undertaken at Haverford, Mr. Law worked long and hard throughout the year to train his singers.

On December 11 and 13, the Glee Club warmed up for their annual Christmas Concert by singing at the Valley Forge Memorial Chapel and at Upper Merion High School, respectively. The Christmas program itself took place on December 16 and proved to be a great success. One of the most difficult and most popular numbers sung was "The Mass of the Holy Nativity," an Anglican Communion service. The playing of violinist Wolfgang Schmidt-Hidding, accompanied on the piano by Frederic Carter, also contributed greatly to the evening's enjoyment.

As soon as the winter holidays were over, the Glee Club concentrated on preparing for the greatest single choral program in its history, the Elijah, an oratorio by Felix Mendelssohn. Joining forces with the singing groups of the Baldwin, Shipley, Irwin, and Hill schools, the Haverford Glee Club presented the Elijah on April 21 in the gymnasium. The oratorio was sung by four professional soloists as well as the combined glee clubs of the five schools. Mr. Harold Gilbert, who directs the Mendelssohn Club chorus, conducted the singers, and accompaniment was supplied by four pianos and an organ. This colossal program was a great success, inspiring to the performers as well as the audience.

On May 5, the Glee Club sang at St. Mary's Hall, continuing their series of concerts with that school.

Although their schedule was long and exacting, the Glee Club successfully undertook everything they encountered, and the 70-odd boys that comprised the organization felt that their hard work was well worth while. Mr. Law deserves great credit for the success of his singers. Patient and persevering, he brought the boys through the toughest year in their history and coordinated a small, inexperienced group of students into a fine chorus.

Standing: T. Geer, R. Wilkinson, Cassedy, Hawks, F. Carter, Dyer, Elsom, Ledwith, Ward, Clements, Jay Allen, Eberhard. Seated: Mr. Law.

3 FOURS

The Three Fours, Haverford's original small singing group, is made up of boys who are selected from the Glee Club in competitive tryouts. This year, ten boys were picked to join the two returning members, Jay Allen and Kendall Elsom. James Cassedy, Taggert Geer, and Richard Wilkinson were chosen to fill the first tenor section, and Frederic Carter, Wallace Dyer, and Charles Hawks were second tenors. Richard Ledwith and Peter Ward joined veteran baritone Kendall Elsom, and Richard Eberhard and Rex Clements sang bass along with Jay Allen.

During the Christmas season, the Three Fours joined with the Apollos in singing carols at two hospitals, several men's clubs, and a home for the aged.

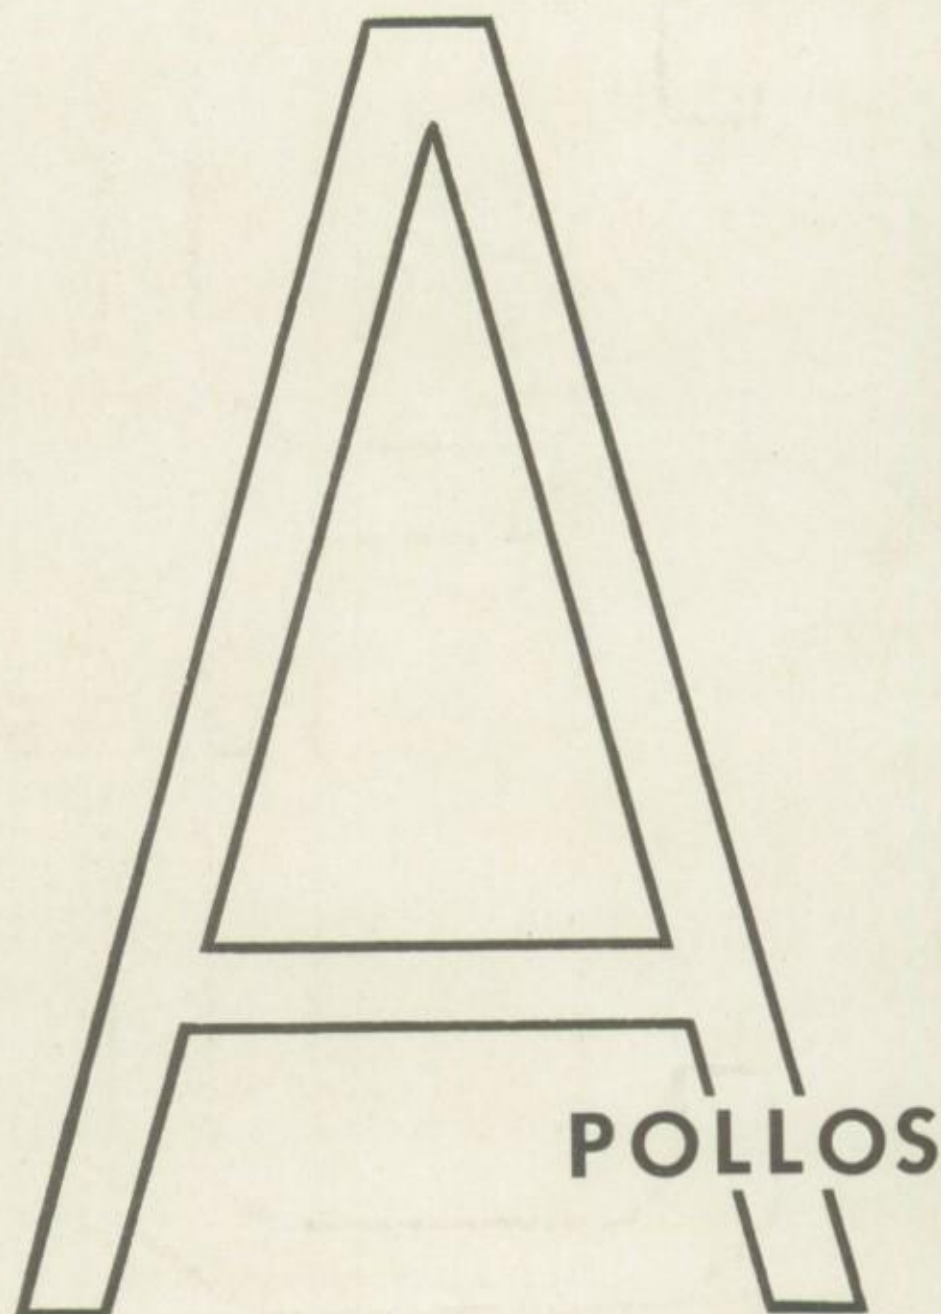

The spring season began with the combined groups singing at the Valley Forge Chapel on Easter Sunday, followed by an appearance in the Tri-County Concert, held at Radnor High School. The members were also occupied in singing at various churches, schools, and hospitals. In all, these singers learned about thirty numbers, consisting of spiritual, light classical, and popular songs.

Standing: Sloan, Faunce, Rogers, R. West, Buell, Ballard, W. Sinkler, C. Smith, O. West, Dop, Hyland, Kane, Riter. Seated: Mr. Law.

The Apollos were formed in 1953 by boys from the Glee Club who wanted to sing in a small group. this year, the Apollos had fourteen members. The first tenors were John Faunce, Peter Rea, David Rogers, and Van Sloan, Alan Ballard, Lawrence Buell, and Ralph West were second tenors. The baritone section was filled by Wharton Sinkler, Christopher Smith, and Olin West. The basses were Peter Dop, William Hyland, Peter Kane, and Bankson Riter. This year's only returning member, Ted Riter was elected president of the organization.

The Apollos combined with the Three Fours for the Christmas season, and again in April, when the two groups won a competition and sang at the Tri-County Concert. The two songs presented at this concert were "Gloria" and "Little Innocent Lamb." During the year, the Apollos managed to build up a sizable repertoire and were very successful at dances, concerts, and outside events.

A student committee, under Mr. Austin, was formed this year to supervise the morning assembly program. The committee members took turns in leading assembly every day except Monday, when the Headmaster led the morning exercises. As an attempt to brighten the morning assembly, committee members led the way in preparing novel programs and in presenting interesting regular features, such as the well-known "Thought for Today."

In conjunction with Mr. Austin, the committee chose speakers for the long Thursday assemblies. Leading men in professions such as law, medicine, engineering, selling, and news reporting gave talks aimed at helping students make up their minds on future careers. The speakers were excellent this year, and their topics lively. Perhaps the most profitable aspect of the speeches was that time set aside afterward to permit a question and answer period. This was the second year in the series of speeches by members of the various professions.

NATURAL SCIENCE CLUB

The Natural Science Club was founded in 1954 to fill the needs of students whose scientific interests lie in the outdoors. At club meetings, which are held every two weeks, slides or motion pictures of some particular phase of natural science are shown. Every member must have a specific project with which he becomes completely familiar. At some time during the year, he delivers to the club a lecture on his subject.

During this year, the club made several field trips in search of more complete knowledge of their topics of study. Two of the most interesting trips were to Hawk Mountain Wild Life Sanctuary and to the wildlife preserve on Tinicum Island in the Delaware River.

Tribute should be paid to the club's president, John duPont, and its faculty advisor, Mr. Rugg, for their excellent job of running the club. The Natural Science Club's other officers were George Blythe, the vice-president, and Sheldon Severinghaus, the secretary-treasurer.

EDISON SOCIETY

The purpose of the Edison Society is to further the interest and knowledge of students in the field of science. This year, for the first time in its history, the club was composed only of General Science students. About eighteen students made up the membership, and all meetings and functions of the club were well attended.

The activities of the club consisted of meetings in Mr. Sensenig's physics lab plus two trips to nearby scientific sights. The biweekly meetings were spent listening to a member talk on a specific scientific subject. Motion pictures on pertinent subjects added greatly to the enjoyment of the meetings. The year's first trip was a tour through Philadelphia's Franklin Institute. As a direct result of this interesting tour, five of the students became members of the Franklin Institute. In the Spring, most of the club members went through a nearby paper mill and watched the whole process of manufacturing wood pulp into finished paper.

President of this freshman organization was Stewart Furlong, while Thomas Worth was vice-president, and John Allen was secretary.

N. Fitler, J. Arscott, Connaughton, Mr. Gottshall, E. Dixon, Strawbridge, Hepburn, Christie, R. Stewart, Peltz, Souder, Classen, Mozino, E. Sinkler, Morgan, Cushmore, Coady, Deitrick, J. Howson.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

Last year, the Class of '58 organized the Third Form Photography Club. This year the membership was expanded to include the upper four forms. The club continued to hold its meetings in the chemistry laboratory and the adjoining darkroom.

In order to encourage the members to take better pictures, the club sponsored several photography contests during the year. Some of the better pictures were published in the Index and the Haligoluk.

As a result of these contests, the members increased their knowledge and skill in taking pictures. During the meetings, the students presented their findings and discussed new photographic methods and ideas.

The club officers, who ran the club under Mr. Gottshall's supervision, were President Philip Hepburn, Vice-President Edward Nixon, and Secretary-Treasurer Gordon Large.

This year marked the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Dramatic Club, the oldest organization in the school. As is customary, the club produced a group of three one-act plays in December, and a drama in March.

The first of the three one-act plays put on in December was "Love Arrant," a comedy with Peter Kane, Christopher Smith, and the female leads taken by Judith Connor, Susan Kulp and Judith Jayne from the Baldwin School. The second play, "The Trysting Place," featured Peter Ward and Baldwin's Taylor Barnett. The last of the one-act plays was "The Valiant," with Wallace Dyer, Lawrence Iwan, Rex Clements, and, from Baldwin, Patricia Hughes.

The club's director, Mr. Robert U. Jameson, did his usual competent job of picking actors from the available supply, and proceeded to coordinate their talents and efforts toward the completion of a triumphant dramatic season. In the March play, specialty acts, different from ordinary acting, came under his direction. Two male groups, one skilled in barbershop harmony and the other well practiced in chorus line dancing entertained the audience during intermissions.

Aiding Mr. Jameson were the president Bankson Riter, the vice-president, Mr. Black, and the treasurer, Mr. Repetto. The secretary was Alan Ballard, and Rex Clements was the business manager.

SIGNET SOCIETY

The Signet Society is the Senior honor society of the school. It strives to build up a wholesome school spirit and to encourage all worthwhile activities around the school.

The society this year, as in past years, has initiated no drastic reforms, and is therefore not as conspicuous as other clubs which have a more tangible set of duties to carry out. However, working behind the scenes, the Signet Society has been, in part, responsible for the success of functions of other organizations.

For example, this year's Signet Society furnished volunteer ushers for the March Play and the Glee Club's performance of the Elijah. It also helped in the sale of tickets for this year's Inter-Academic Dance and took the lead in presenting ideas before the Senior Class for an appropriate class gift.

Continuing its policy of being a Senior honor society in which members of the Senior Class are rewarded for their contributions to the school, the Signet held a spring picnic for all Society members on the spacious grounds of Richard Jones' farm.

Members, in previous years, were generally elected into the Society at the rate of three per month. This year, however, elections were not held until January, at which time a mass election was held to choose nine members. This change in voting procedure proved successful in that almost every boy in the Senior Class cast a ballot in the election.

The officers of the Signet Society were Kendall Elsom, Rex Clements, and William Hughes.

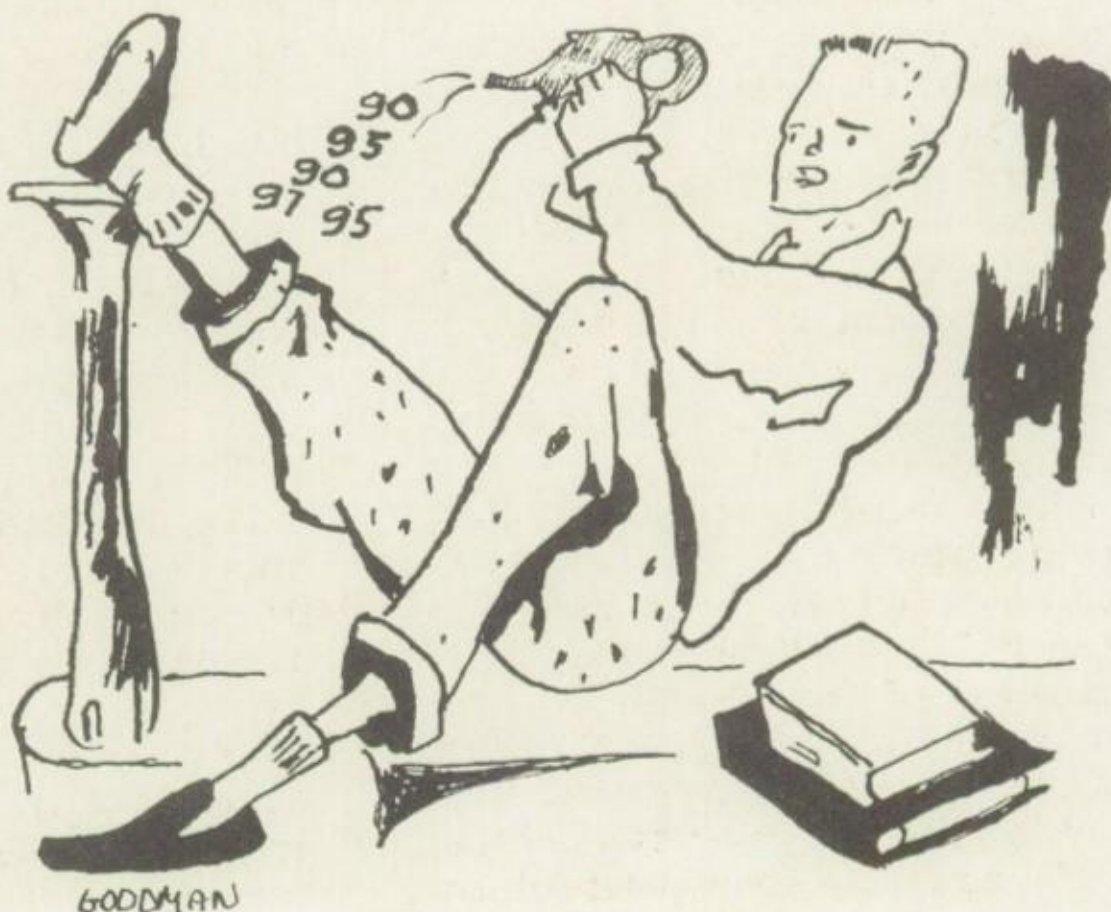

Tobin, Hawks, Weiss, Mudd, Howe.

CUM LAUDE SOCIETY

In April, 1955, Charles Hawks, Samuel Howe, John Mudd, Gregory Tobin, and James Weiss were chosen as members of the Cum Laude Society. These five boys, all top students, formed the nucleus of Haverford School's chapter of this national honor society.

The illustrious members of this small group had few real duties arising from membership in Cum Laude. They met only rarely as a body, and then only for general discussion or for a trip to the Philadelphia area annual meeting, However, each of the boys was active in school affairs, Charles Hawks was a member of the Three Fours; Samuel Howe was captain of the tennis team; John Mudd was president of the Senior Class and captain of the wrestling team; Gregory Tobin was on the editorial staff of both the Haligoluk and Index; and James Weiss was news editor of the Index and features editor for the Haligoluk.

Late in the school year, as many as six additional seniors are honored by election to Cum Laude. This fills out the membership of this respected group to a maximum of twenty percent of the graduating class.

STUDENT COUNCIL

This year, the Student Council strived to improve school life rather than spend its time as a disciplinary body. In January, the Council sponsored a gripe session for their fellow students. As a result of this conference, the students got a chance to air their opinions of all facets of the school, and the administration got a true insight of the feelings of the student body. One of the immediate results of the gripe session was the establishment of a nine man committee to serve as proctors every period in the second floor library.

The Student Council periodically sent representatives to meetings of the Inter-Academic Student Council. This group, comprised of student government members in nearby schools, has as an aim more harmonious inter-school relations.

During the first semester, twelve boys served on the Student Council: Walter Acuff and Christopher Harvey from Third Form; David Rogers from the Fourth Form, Peter Ward, Stephen Vehslage and Olin West from the Fifth Form; and Kendall Elsom, John Mudd, Frederick Krick, Wharton Sinkler, Harry Montague, and Rex Clements from the Sixth Form. The organization elected Elsom their president, Mudd vice-president, and Krick secretary.

Shortly after mid-year examinations, elections were held again and David Litton, Richard Eckfeldt, and Mitchell Gibbons-Neff were added to the membership.

OUTING CLUB

The 1955-56 Outing Club started off well last fall, but soon after the year's first trip Mr. Rugg, suspended trips until the faculty advisor, recovered from an illness.

The first trip of the year was to French Creek State Park, where the campers slept on damp (!) ground. Despite this hardship, everyone enjoyed the weekend very much. In February, the club was a guest at John duPont's skating party in Newtown Square. The club's second overnight was to Hickory Run Park, a favorite camping ground. Besides these trips, the club sponsored a trap shoot which was most successful, in spite of the poor weather.

The club's dues were raised this year to two dollars, and in order to get more active participation, one dollar was returned if the member went on one of the overnights. An active member' as such a fellow was called, was privileged to have a double vote in the electing next year's officers.

This year, the president of the Outing Club was George Blythe, and its secretary-treasurer was John duPont.

LATIN CLUB

During the last two years the Latin Club has been occupied with learning the Greek language. However, this year the club's purpose was to show the relationship between the Latin language and the civilization of its time. Under Dr. Newhall's supervision, the club members learned much about the cultures of ancient Greece and Rome. In conjunction with this field of study, the Latin Club took trips to the Fels Planetarium and the University of Pennsylvania Museum. The club also subscribed to a Latin-language publication, Des Gestae.

The officers of the club were Michael Mullins, president, David Litton, vice-president and chairman of public relations, and Robert Gordon secretary.

FOOTBALL

The record of the 1955 Football Team was a relatively unimpressive one of three wins and five losses. Led by Captain Sandy Tuttle, the team compiled the excellent record of three wins and one loss in non-Inter Ac games. However, Inter-Ac competition was stiff and the team lost all four games. The wins were against Frankford, Olney High, and P.M.C. Prep.

Of a squad of about forty boys, Captain Tuttle and Dick Eberhard were the only two returning lettermen. However, under the experienced guidance of "Doc" Wallace and Coaches Prizer and Parsons, the boys developed into a light and hard-hitting team.

The seasons closest and most exciting game came on November 18, when Haverford played Penn Charter. During the second quarter after Haverford fumbled several times, Penn Charter scored. The rest of the game was scoreless until the remaining moments of the last period when Haverford drove to the Penn

Several boys on the team have distinguished themselves for their ability at the game. Captain Tuttle was elected to the All-Inter-Ac first team, Olin West made second team, and Tom Webster and Jamie Godshalk both received Honorable Mention. At the Football Dance on December 3 the Eggleston Trophy was presented to Bill Hughes for his outstanding performance throughout the entire football season.

The team elected Olin West and Dick Eckfeldt to succeed Sandy Tuttle as captain for the 1956 season. Next year's manager will be William Ewing.

SOCCER

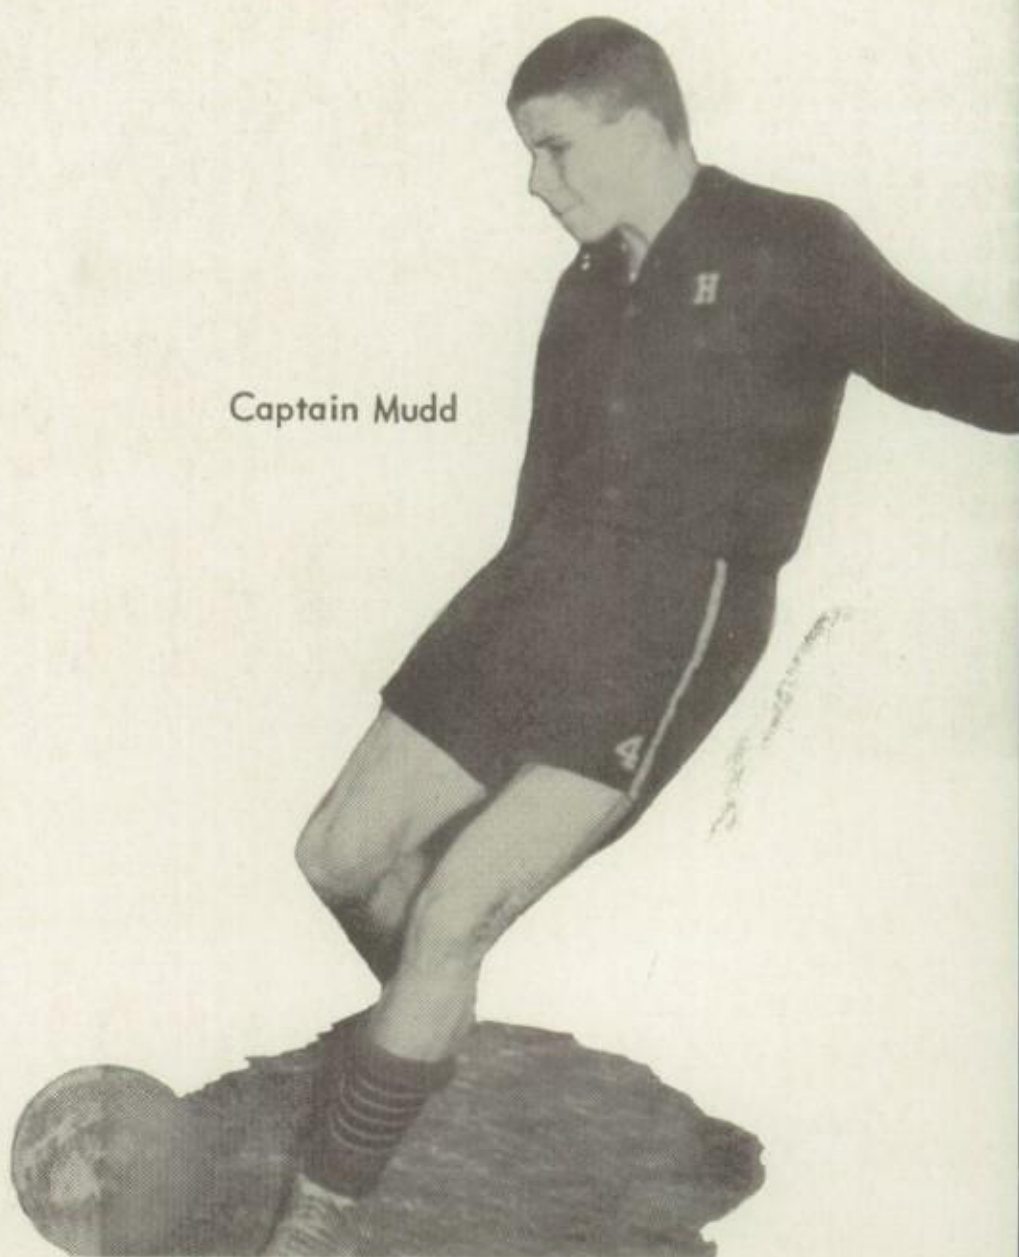

The soccer team, under the excellent guidance of Coaches Harry Smith and Ben Hayward, won seven, lost five, and tied three of their games this season. This record tied the team for third place with Penn Charter in the Inter-Ac League.

Of a squad of over thirty-five boys who assembled on September 7, there were ten returning lettermen. Led by Captain Mudd, the boys soon turned from a bunch of footloose freebooters into a highly organized and well trained team. This is illustrated by the five shutouts of the season, which were made against Germantown High, West Philadelphia High, George School, Moorestown Friends, and Germantown Academy.

On November 17, the last game of the season was played with Friends Central there. It was probably the most heartening game of the season, for before the half was over the Big Red was well in the lead. During the half-time pep talk, Coach Smith cautioned the boys not to tally up too great a score. The game ended with a score of 8 for the Big Red and 1 for Friends Central.

During the season, several members of the team have distinguished themselves individually for their ability in soccer. John Mudd and Steve Vehslage both earned positions on the All-Philadelphia second soccer team. They also made the All-Inter-Ac first team. Sam Dixon and Alfred Rauch were on the All-Inter-Ac second team; Don Shaffer won All-Inter-Ac Honorable Mention. Richie Jones won the Dowling Cup, and John Mudd earned the much-coveted Ex-Soccer Captain's Award.

Under next year's co-captains, Vehslage and Rauch, Coach Harry Smith can look forward to another season of fine soccer playing.

BASKETBALL

The basketball team had another satisfactory season this year. Despite the expert coaching of Mr. Prizer and the seasoned leadership of Captain Tuttle, the team lost the first six games of the season. Fortunately, however, the team did not give up hope and continued to strive for victory. They practiced hard during the Christmas Recess and worked constantly for better coordination. Their efforts and long hours spent in practice combined to earn several successes for the team. They started clicking and bounced back to their feet to win seven games and lose only fourteen during the entire season. A team with the amount of pure talent ours had deserves such an outstanding record.

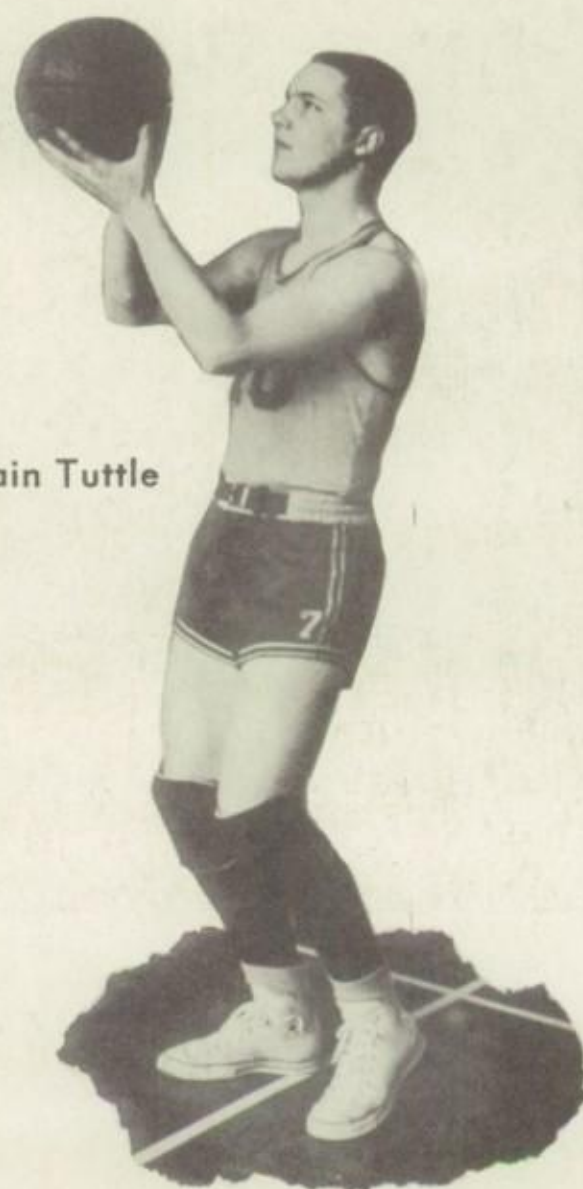

The team this year consisted mainly of seniors. Tuttle, Bevan, Hughes, Krick, Simpson, and Howson inspired the squad throughout the season. Ted Krick won the greatly coveted William Neely Memorial Princeton Award for the player who shows the greatest interest and the most outstanding ability during the season. Some underclassmen who saw a great deal of action were Ted Rauch, Olin West, Jerry Aldrich, and Don Shaffer.

One of the most exciting games of the season was the Malvern game. In a tightly fought see-saw battle, Malvern who had previously defeated us, lost by the score of 50-54. In another exciting contest, although we were tied 20-20 at the half, we came out ahead of the very strong Penn Charter five; the final score was 61-53 in favor of the Fords.

The team elected Ted Rauch to head the boys next year, and with the nucleus of experienced players that he will have to lean on, next year's basketball squad should compile an even better record than this year's.

2-3	Episcopal Invitation Tournament at Palestra		1st.

During the 1955-56 season, the varsity wrestling team compiled a fine record of thirteen wins and one loss in dual meets, defeating such formidable opponents as Bryn Athyn, Blair Academy, and Peddie School. The grapplers captured the Inter-Ac League title for the sixth consecutive year and, in post season competition, won the Episcopal Invitation Tournament, also for the sixth straight time.

This year's varsity squad had 13 members: Phil Burnham at 95 pounds; Jim Eaton, 103; Albert Oehrle, 112; Cliff Keevan, 123; Captain John Mudd, 127; Tag Geer, 133; Tom Webster, 138; Frank Manno, 138; Tom Russell, 154; Fred Marzullo and Ted Wagner, 165; Dick Eckfeldt, 175; and John Deitrick, heavyweight. Both Oehrle and Mudd were undefeated throughout the year, but the latter won all his matches and copped the coveted wrestling trophy awarded annually to the "grappler" who scores the most points during regular season meets. Dick Eckfeldt, receiving an award for his outstanding work as a first year man, gained possession of the alligator trophy, which has never been given before (or since).

This year, as in recent winters, the big event for the wrestlers was the Episcopal Invitation Tournament, which took place on March 2-3 at the Palestra. Nine high schools, including every Inter-Ac team, participated, and, as they had for the five previous years, Haverford won. The Fords piled up 74 points, compared to second place Penn Charter's 46. Albert Oehrle, Cliff Keegan, John Mudd, Tag Geer, and John Deitrick captured first places in their weight classes, while Phil Burnham, Jim Eaton, and Frank Manno won seconds and Dick Eckfeldt came through with a fourth place. With this decisive win, the grapplers closed their season, thus completing another year of fine wrestling.

This year's swimming team compiled a creditable record of nine wins and two defeats. The season's first three contests were easy victories. However, the Hill School ended the streak with a decisive 57-20 win. Haverford's only firsts were by Cannon in the dive, and Mulligan, who swam the 200 yard free-style in 2:04.9.

After sinking Germantown Academy, the team traveled to West Point to face the Plebes, who went under with little trouble, due to the efforts of David McIlvaine (2:05.5 in the 200) and Ed Mulligan (54.6 in the 100 yard free-style). The next meet was a breather, as the Fords trounced the visiting Northeast High School, 66-11.

Then came Lawrenceville, undefeated in prep or high school dual competition since 1946. The visitors had great strength in the initial events, and the Fords soon found themselves behind 24-3. However, starting with a first and second in the backstroke, Haverford finmen took the next four individual events. Then came the medley relays, which Haverford won with a record-breaking 1:53.8, thanks to Captain Brodhead's

In the Interscholastics at Princeton, seven individuals and both relay teams qualified for the finals. In the 200 yard freestyle, David McIlvaine turned in a tremendous performance to take a second place, and Gay Hopkins took a sixth. Haverford was the only school out of 58 which copped a first and second in one event. This was done by Eisenbray and Captain-elect Girvin in the backstroke. Ed Mulligan finished a fine season by capturing a second in the 100 yard freestyle, in which John Haslett placed sixth. Ollie Cannon finished fifth in the dive, and Hopkins, our youngest and only double qualifier, was sixth in the individual medley. The medley relay of Eisenbrey, Cannon, Brodhead, and Mulligan was fifth, and the freestyle relay of Eberhard, Glynn, Haslett, and Girvin took a fourth.

At the conclusion of the '56 season, the varsity squash team had seven wins and one loss. The team enjoyed a new experience when it traveled to West Point and Annapolis. Stephen Vehslage was unanimously chosen next year's captain.

BASEBALL

The varsity baseball team of 1956 opened its season on an encouraging note. Although they lost, 2-3, to Haverford High on April 3, in a game in which Robert Sherrod was robbed of a home run through the umpire's error, the squad came back to win their next two contests, both against Inter-Academic foes. Three days after their initial defeat, the Fords swamped Friends Central, 25-0, Captain Sandy Tuttle helping the cause with a grand slam home run. On April 10 the varsity overcame Penn Charter, 4-0, in a tremendous upset over Oliver Powers, who has dominated the league for the last few seasons. Because of the team's fine showing against Inter-Ac opponents, coaches and players alike had high hopes for the season.

TENNIS

The tennis squad, coached by Mr. Richardson, was centered around the three returning lettermen from last season's varsity team. They were Sunny Howe, Greg Tobin, and Steve Vehslage. These three remained at the top of the ladder all season long. The remainder of the team composed of some of last year's JV's and 14 year olds. Playing singles were Howe, Tobin, Vehslage, and Gordon in that order. Playing first doubles were Mudd and Mitchell, and second doubles were G. West and R. Howe.

The team hoped for their fifth straight Inter-Academic League tennis title this year. Early season hopes were encouraged by the team's winning its first three matches. Because of the fine calibre of its men, the racket-men expect to duplicate the fine records made in past seasons.

TRACK

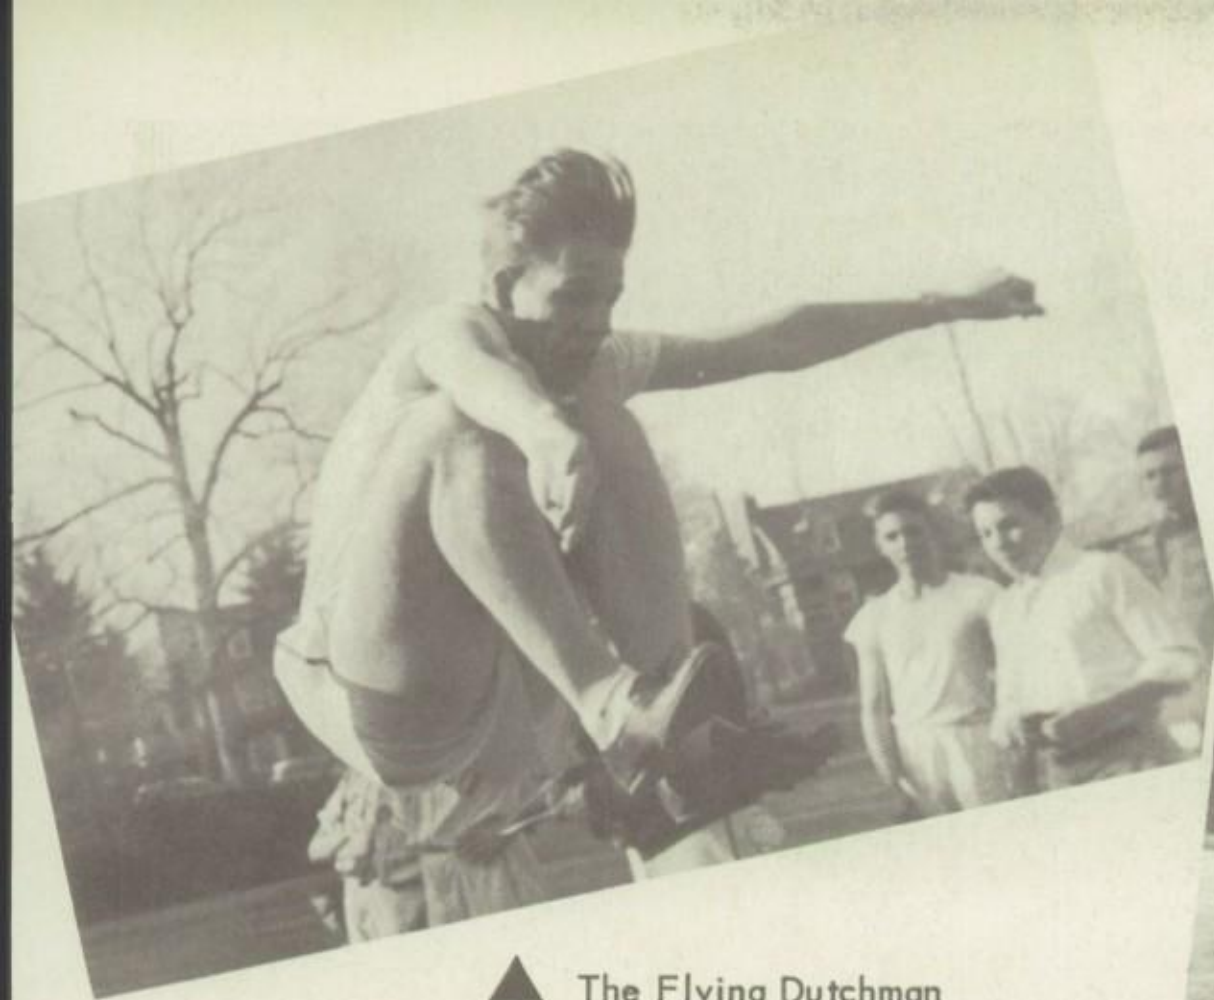

Although the track team was not expected to do well this year, it has surprised everyone by winning its first two meets.

The team, led this year by co-captains Richie Jones and Wharton Sinkler, has been strengthened by several boys who are new to the school and others who have worked up through the ranks. Most notable of the new boys are: Wolfgang Schmit-Hidding in the mile; Peter Dop in the broad jump, high jump, and the mile; Larry Iwan in the half-mile; and Tom Sylk in the 220 and 100 yard dash. Norrie Eisenbrey looks very good in the high jump; Charlie Olson and Ed Mulligan both look well in the shot put. Morris Swope, who has come up from the junior track team, is doing well in the 100 and 220 yard dash; Sam Dixon is doing well in the hurdles.

With this depth in his team, Coach Doc Wallace had every hope for a winning season.

GOLF

This year's golf team had a great deal of rebuilding to do in order to meet its stiff schedule. Mr. Lupton, last year's coach, was unable to coach the team this year due to a tight personal schedule, and the boys were forced to find a new coach. Luckily, Mr. Austin volunteered for the job.

The team, led by Dave Bevan, Ken Elsom, and Captain Murray, had quite a satisfactory season. Manno, Lipsky, Reed, and Gerdelman filled the rest of the starting positions.

The highlights of the season were the matches against Hill School, Lawrenceville, and Penn Charter.

Every year the golf team tours the Main Line Golf Courses in an effort to get in shape. Among the courses used by the "Pros" are the St. David's Golf Course and Spring Mill Golf Course.

CREW

Although this year's crew had only three scheduled matches, it practiced diligently from March to June. In training for the Philadelphia Schoolboy Championships on May 5, the Stotesbury Cup Regatta on the 19th of the same month, and the National Schoolboy Championships, held in Poughkeepsie, New York, on May 25 and 26, the squad worked out six, sometimes seven days a week at the Undine Barge Club.

This year's crew was led by Captain Robert Harvey, and other returning rowers include Wallace Dyer, Thomas Russell, Peter Rea, and Charles Barclay. Since a great number of eager newcomers, many of whom showed promise, came out for the team, the coach and boys were optimistic about their chances of success in their three regattas.
